

From Service to Seva: A Heartfelt Journey after Retirement

By Devidas Jiddewar

After my retirement, I decided to dedicate my time to social service and joined the Samaj Seva Sangathan (Community Service Organization). Here, I found many like-minded and selfless members who shared a common vision of serving our community.

Together, we have resolved various minor and major marital and social disputes within the community through mutual understanding and cooperation. The organization has extended a helping hand to those in need and supported many families during difficult times.

We have also honored distinguished individuals from our community who have excelled in fields such as police service, medicine, and law. Additionally, the organization regularly conducts guidance camps for students to encourage educational growth and awareness.

Our mission is to continue implementing such meaningful initiatives for the welfare and progress of our society. We sincerely seek the cooperation and blessings of all our community members in this noble cause.
